The Pocket Dictionary of Art Terms

Pocket Dictionary of Art Terms [Mass Market Paperback] Edited By Mervyn Levy is a concise and convenient guide to the language of the fine arts. This little book contains more than 500 entries defining simply and clearly the important styles, schools and movements, and the techniques and physical properties of painting, sculpture and architecture, as well as other frequently used special terms. According to Llyfrgell Genedlaethol Cymru / The National Library of Wales Mervyn Levy, artist, writer, critic and teacher, was born in Swansea in 1914. He went to school with the poet Dylan Thomas, who became a lifelong friend. Art became his driving force and in 1935, whilst a student at the Royal College of Art, he was awarded the Sir Herbert Read Prize for drawing. After serving as Captain of the Royal Army Educational Corps during the Second World War, he held posts as art tutor at Bristol University and at the Royal West of England Academy, Bristol. During the 1950s his teaching skills led to his own BBC television series 'Painting for housewives' which ran for several years. He also appeared regularly on BBC radio arts programmes and interviewed artists for the BBC Radio archives. Over the next 30 years he produced over 25 books including A dictionary of art terms (1963), The paintings of D. H. Lawrence (1964) and Whistler lithographs (1975). He became a great authority on the English artist, L. S. Lowry (1887-1976), producing many publications, as well as becoming a friend.
